

Land rover defender fire & ice

Land Rover is one of the icons of the automotive industry. The first vehicles of the brand appeared in 1947. Like most truly rural construction, originally designed for military transport. The prototype was designed by Maurice Wilks - Head of the then-brand designers Rover. The first car was a chassis based on the U.S. Willis, but its design was much more advanced.

The car had a body made up of aluminum and magnesium alloy, so that, theoretically at least, was completely resistant to corrosion. Production version debuted in 1948 on a car showroom in Amsterdam, and had put it next to the modern defender, the differences ... is not firmly in the eye. The car is designed so that you inquired in all conditions, its ability to field are legendary. It was only in 1970, the company has released the first in the world "civilized" roadster. The idea was to create a car, which will cope in difficult fieldconditions, and provide comfort to its owner of a passenger car class higher. Thus was born the Range Rover, which gave new meaning defining "auto-road." Currently the market is not "racial" poor car field. Most companies - Range Rover model - went in the direction of luxury. Toyota Land Cruiser, Mercedes G-class or Hummer H2, although it retained the high-road capabilities, have become a luxury vehicle at the same time, very rich from selling equipment. Probably the only defender kept its original character of the car speed and poorly equipped. But also now belongs to Indians Land Rover, he decided to show that, although the defender almost looks like more than half a century, auto, it can be thoroughly modern vehicle that is equipped with all amenities. This is a series of limited defender called Fire & Ice. The car was aluminum wheels, comfortable, heated seats RECARO, interior-finished leather and alcanter, and sunroof. Facilities also include, among others ABS and air conditioning. Limited version is painted orange (fire) or white (ice) that covers the roof and the bonnet is black. On the black painted thresholds are also shields and wings. In contrast, the middle console refers to the color of its body color. Land Rover will produce only 850 copies defender fire & ice. Cars that will be offered both in the short version of 90, and a long 110 will go to European markets, as well as to China and South Africa.